CLARE RICHARDS MEETS DEATH AT MADERA

Falls From Buggy While Driving From Madera About 11 P. M. Sunday Night

INTOXICATION CAUSED FALL

Clare Richards, aged 36 years, met with death on Saturday evening or early Sunday morning, as the result of an accident, but it is not clearly established just what occurred to cause his death. It is stated that Richards was in Madera on Saturday evening and that about 10:30 o'clock he left that place in an intoxicated condition. He was driving in a buggy drawn by a mule. That was the last seen or heard of him until Sunday morning at 7 o'clock, at which hour his lifeless body was found lying along the road about 2 1/2 miles out of Madera. His feet were pointing towards the ditch and his head well up towards the center of the road. He had a fractured skull and two fractures of the lower jaw.

In view of the fact that Richards was intoxicated it is the belief of the officials that he fell out of the rig while driving along. Quite likely he landed well up on the road and was unable to realize his danger. From the injuries received by Richards it is the supposition that an automobile must have struck him some time during the night. It is known that one automobile passed through madera en route to Moutdale about 12 o'clock and that another passed through Madera en route to Glen Hope about 2 o'clock in the morning. It is possible that one of these machines struck the man lying in the road. It is not believed that a fall out of a buggy would result in a fractured skull and two fractures of the jaw.

Philipsburg Booze Is Cause of a Stabbing

Woodland Citizens up in Arms over Saturday Night Affair

A Russian, name unknown, is languishing in the County Jail today awaiting trial on a charge of stabbing a man who attempted to act the part of peace maker in an affray at a Woodland boarding house Saturday evening. The Russian was drunk and disorderly and was ordered to go to bed by his wife, whereupon he became abusive and attempted to stab her. The victim of his knife thrust sustained an ugly cut in the chest but apparently will suffer no dire results from it. People of Woodland say that this fracas and a great many others of a like nature occurring about there are the direct result of the bottle trade in booze from Philipsburg. Dozens of men leave there every Saturday evening and go to Philipsburg where they load up their suitcases with bottles. The quality of the bottle booze is such that the drinkers become as madmen and are capable of committing any sort of crime.

Almost Two Billion Asked To Run This Government 1 Year

Estimate of The Various Heads of Departments Submitted to Congress Today by Secretary McAdoo

$5,000,000 ASKED FOR THE OHIO RIVER

Washington, Dec. 4.—(By United Press)—Legislative provisions to shatter the high cost of living were introduced at the reopening of Congress today. Representative Fitzgerald leader of the embargo forces introduced four plans—the two of them called for proposed embargo on exports and the other two for regulation of cold storage and reduction of parcel post charges of food stuffs. Representative Farr of Pennsylvania proposed an embargo on wheat and Representative London, Socialist, of New York is working on measures for a proposed dictatorship plan. Representatives of the farm districts rallied against the bills and said they would put through a union embargo. Both houses sent a resolution to President Wilson telling him that they were ready for his message tomorrow. The house convened at 12:01. Speaker Clark calling for order. The senate started to work three minutes later. At 12:11 senate recessed until three.

The provisions of the Fitzgerald bill are—an out and out embargo on farm products and manufactured food stuffs for one year. 2.—Provisions that the President suspend exportation whenever prices become exorbitant and public interests require such action. 3.—Regulation of cold storage with regard to interstate shipment of food other than 10 months in storage and then to be distinctly labelled with the date of when they were stored.

Washington, Dec. 4.—(By United Press)—It will take $1,854,818,654.03 to run the government of the United States from June 30, 1917 to June 30, 1918.

This is the estimate of the heads of the various branches of the government of the country submitted to congress today through Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

Of this grand total of more than a billion and a half dollars the various establishments estimates are set forth as follows:

Legislative, $7,891,622.5; executive, $22,979,685; judicial $1,395,790; department of agriculture, $28,098,207; foreign intercourse, $5,700,020.66; military establishment, $200,694,684.52; naval establishment, $366,070,651.67; Indian affairs, $12,230,356.67; pensions, $155,560,000; Panama canal, $25,145,562.25; public works, $145,118,224.46; postal service, $225,355,820; miscellaneous, $108,914,788.93; permanent annual appropriations, $143,864,820.32.

The total estimate for the needs of the government for the next fiscal year exceeds by $27,197,559.98 the amount appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917.

With the exception of the postal service the needs for defense and preparedness as shown in the report constitutes the largest single item.

Congress was asked today for $32,000,000 for the Ohio river.

128,000 as an appropriation for the Rivers and Harbors improvement bill for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918. Last year $42,081,000 was asked for the work. The biggest single item in their estimates submitted through the treasury department was $6,000,000 to improve the Mississippi river from the head of Tassas to the Ohio river and to provide for the Mississippi river commission. The second largest item was $5,000,000 for dams and locks on the Ohio river to give a depth of nine feet below Pittsburgh. The third item in point of amount was $2,250,000 asked to maintain and improve the Mississippi from the Missouri river to Minneapolis, Minn. Fourth in order of size is $2,150,000 for improvements and maintenance of the South West Pass on the Mississippi River in Louisiana. Next is a request for $2,000,000,000 for improvement of the Delaware river.

Two Important Organized Labor Cases Before The Supreme Court

United Mine Workers Appeal from Decision in Hitchman Coal and Coke Co. Case.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Among the cases soon to receive attention of the Supreme Court of the United States, which reconvened today after the recess over the Thanksgiving holidays, are two important cases involving organized labor, and, particularly, the right of workmen to organize unions. Both cases are from West Virginia in litigation of the Hitchman coal and coke Company against the United Mine Workers, its officers, and of the Eagle Glass Manufacturing Co. against the United Flint Glass Workers' Union and its officers.

In the United Mine Workers' suit, validity of a finding by Federal Judge Dayton that the union is an illegal organization is appealed from. In the Glass worker's union case, the Eagle company of Wellsburg, W. Va. is appealing from a decree holding that that union is not an unlawful organization.

The glassworkers' case has never been heard by the Supreme Court. The case of the United Mine Workers was argued last March, but no decision was reached and reargument before a full bench was ordered.

ANSONVILLE LAD OF EIGHT YEARS KILLED SUNDAY

Brother, 14, Attempts to Wrest Gun From Lad, is Accidentally Discharged and Kills Him

LOAD CRASHED THROUGH HEAD

A very distressing accident, resulting in the death of an eight year old boy, took place at Ansonville on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Two boys, Ralph Heift, aged 8 years, and his brother, Paul, aged 14 years, on Sunday afternoon went upstairs at their home to play. Ralph, the eight-year-old youngster, picked up a double barreled hammerless shotgun that was in one of the rooms. His older brother, realizing the danger of such a weapon in the hands of his brother, endeavored to take it away from him. In some manner the trigger caught, firing the gun, and the entire contents of the load entered the mouth of Ralph, the eight-year-old boy, killing him instantly. The barrel of the gun was so close to the youngster that the shot crashed clear through his head.

The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Heift, well known residents of that section. The accident was one that shocked the entire community.

The Liquor Men of Massachusetts Fear Municipal Election Results

Thirty-five Cities in State in Vote on Issue During This Month Including Boston.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 4.—The out-staff is doing his or her part to swing some of the municipal elections about Boston into the no-license column. According to the no-license and pro-Massachusetts cities is awaited with bated breath. The liquor people are frightened at the prospects of the election that the Billy Sunday campaign now being conducted in this city may have on the vote of the liquor men. Washington, Dec. 4.—(By United Press)—With an open challenge for a complete expose of any "pork" schemes, engineered under the guise of Rivers and Harbors legislation, the thirteenth annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress will convene here Wednesday.

"If anyone knows," the challenge read, "that a project has no merit, or that an appropriation is sought solely to promote the political fortunes of some Senator or Representative, he will be given an opportunity to publicly name the man."

"However, if a man from Main criticizes a project in California, he will be expected to tell how he happens to know so much about things 2,000 or 3,000 miles away."

The Congress is to be addressed by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, under whose jurisdiction waterways projects are administered.

Speakers are expected to emphasize the present coal shortage as indicative of inadequate transportation and urge development of inland rivers of coal mining districts. "On the headwaters of one of our greatest rivers," a preliminary statement said "coal mines have been compelled to close, for lack of transportation while cities lower down the river have paid famine prices for coal."

The Congress will attack "vaccinating waterways policy," of the United States, and urge some definite constructive schedule of rivers and harbors improvement.

Rear Admiral William S. Benton, Chief of Operations of the Navy, will speak on "The Relation of Improved Waterways to Naval Efficiency," Representative Luther W. Mott, of Oswego, N. Y., will speak on "From the Great Lakes to Tidewater Under the American Flag."

"The Effect of Water Competition on Railway Rates," will be discussed by Theodore Breh, General Manager of the Joint traffic bureau of New Orleans.

PAPER OF MUCH INTEREST READ TO GRANGERS

Mrs. J. S. Wrigley Contributes Article on "What Do Women On Farm Most Desires?"

LABOR SAVING DEVICES

Paper read at Farmers Grange by Sister Mrs. J. S. Wrigley at the 10th November meeting. "What do Women on the Farm desire most?"

The subject on which I am to speak would be a different passage in the phrase "on the farm" were omitted. All women who have had enough training before they reach womanhood and have had a high regard for charity naturally desire the something. It is not only this desire to make a happy home, but to do everything which will tend toward raising this end. Her desire is to assist her husband in every way she can. To the object is to purchase a home, but helpmate of course, wants her husband's cooperation. One thing however should be carefully guarded against, not to give all her energy to one end and in that way defeating other ends. The wife and if she is a mother wants her home to be an attractive place—a place where others like to be.

To have it so it must be kept comfortable, containing good furniture and music on the top of the family may fancy. If this be the wish of any woman it is true of the whole on the farm.

But looking at the subject through the eyes of a woman on the farm, addition to the mentioned things, she naturally desires the conveniences of the labor-saving appliances of the day—that a heat and water supply conveniently arranged in the house, a modern laundry outfit, a vacuum cleaner, or anything which may lessen the drudgery of farm work. Using our automobile, (which I wish to have) we can reach places of interest and rest our minds as well as our bodies.

East End Drug Store Robbed Last Night

Booty Amounting to Nearly $2000 in Store was Stolen

The East End store of the firm of Woodward and McPherson was the victim of a robbery either last night or late Saturday night. In as much as there was no snow on the ground on Saturday morning it is believed that the robbery occurred last night as tracks were found this morning. The robbers entered the store by removing the window out of the door over the coal dump. The window was only 16 by 21 in size. An attempt had been made to remove the door but that idea apparently had been abandoned.

WHO IS RIGHT?

There is a growing tendency on the part of Clearfield men to keep their stores open later than usual during the holiday season. Naturally, it will be for the convenience of the great army of shoppers that they do so, but there must be some half way place that will do justice to both shoppers and store employees.

Contrasting the conditions in Clearfield with those in other places we refer to a movement that is on foot in that city among the leading merchants. They propose to close their stores at nine P. M. on Saturday nights instead of ten P. M. as heretofore.

FAT AND FORTY.

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon who has made a great hit as a physician and advice giver at long distance range has come forth with some good sound advice to the men approaching middle age. We deem it worthy of reprint in this column.

Forty is an unlucky number for men five feet eight or under if it is the waist measure. Any number above that is equally to be avoided. Over weight is dangerous and is indicative of several things. Either the appetite is not controlled, insufficient exercise is taken or the diet is made up of improperly selected food stuffs.

If any or all of these things are to blame it is the part of wisdom to seek expert advice and begin the remedy forthwith. To sink into the placid indifference of the fat and forty stage is a crime against your health. It is all probability that the liver and kidneys are overworked and the results of any such strain prolonged is a fatal one.

There is another reason which is worth almost equal consideration. To over-feed undermines one's health. Physical fitness has a distinct bearing on a man's mental attitude and unfitness has also. The man who through neglect and lack of control over his appetite begins to eat himself into an early grave, loses his crispness of thought. The self respect which every man who believes things should have for himself as a clean well groomed animal is lacking.

Don't weakly excuse yourself if you have unconsciously slipped into this class. Get busy and work yourself out of it before it is too late.

The hand that rocked the cradle
Now makes shells that rock the world,
Now female fingers fashion
Almost every bomb that's hurled;
And maidens, wives and mothers
All stand working, sun to sun,
With bits of glittering metal
That will kill men when their done,
Who knows, Oh Tommy Atkins,
As you throw that hand grenade
Perchance it's one of many
That your wife or sweetheart made.

I ADMIRE ETHEL'S PUNCTUAL HABITS

Ethel's mother was stopping with her a few weeks, so she managed to run out to see me one day when she knew I wouldn't be at the studios. I was upstairs having my hair shampooed when I heard her voice, so I called to her to come up directly. As soon as my hair was dry I dressed and we went for a short ride returning in time for lunch. After lunch we sat in my cheerful sun parlor talking of the hundred and one different things so dear to the mind of the girl of the day. We chatted endlessly about the length of the new skirts, whether the coats should be short, three-quarter or full length. In fact, no favorite topic was neglected.

Since Ethel had promised to be home in time for a six o'clock dinner, I had Eliza bring the tea wagon out early. I had in mind also that mother who had just returned from the shops, might grow faint, and indeed she was pleased when she found the tea things ready. We all lingered a long while over the thin sandwiches and delicious chocolate which dark Eliza concocts in a wonderful fashion.

Mother had brought a number of purchases home with her in the machine, so, of course, we simply had to pass our opinion on each and every article. It took longer than we expected to open the packages, examine the lingerie and shirtwaists, and exclaim over the bounty of some special hothouse roses. Before either of us realized it, the little white clock was chiming four—and Ethel's train left at four-fifteen.

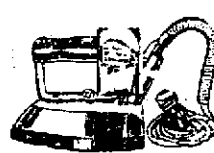

Never did you see a person don wraps so quickly. Her chic little green feather turban was clapped upon her chestnut curls and a delightful veil neatly pinned over it, gloves and afternoon bag grabbed on the way out of the room, while her tan crepe de chine shirtwaist collar was placed over the deep brown of her tailmade suit on the way down stairs. As for me, I had donned a heavy automobile cloak and we were both waiting at the roadway by the time the man brought the machine around to take Ethel to her train. We reached the station in time, and as I waved from the station, Ethel's smiling face beamed at me attractively from the train window.

Why do I mention this trifling incident? Because punctuality is Ethel's great rule. Her boy husband and sweet mother would have thought nothing of it if she had been late to dinner, but Ethel would never permit such a thing to happen. Since tardiness is womankind's conceded failing, don't you think we could all learn a lesson from this little incident?

CURWENSVILLE NEWS

Claim Silver and Lead Vein Exists At Curwensville

A most Interesting Story, be it Legend Or Truth, and One that Will Interest you.

INDIANS KNEW THE EXACT LOCATION

By Lew J. LaPorte.

Considerable space and time has been given by newspapers of years gone by, relative to a silver and lead vein, or mine that is supposed to have existed at a certain point in the riverbed between Curwensville and the Bloom bridge. Early historians speak of it as a legend and say that this treasure trove was guarded by goblins and emissaries of the Evil One.

Be that as it may, there seems to be some foundation for thinking that these two minerals, either separate or together, did and do yet exist in this locality, especially the lead vein. Mr. George W. Harley, the oldest living representative of a native Curwensvillian, now in the 96th year of his age, told the writer of this article many years ago and the following tale. It was handed to him when he was a mere youth and Curwensville little less than a wilderness of mammoth trees.

"When early settlers first came to Curwensville they desired above all things else to gain possession of the river, a waterway for future use in sawmilling, etc. A few years after a certain man made his permanent location, an aged Indian came this way from the direction of the north-west country, traversing, no doubt, the old Indian trail which led from former Delaware Indian possessions, near Grand Island (which had been purchased by a white man some years prior to this epoch from an Indian who owned the land for a worn out gun and a keg of whiskey) and Pine Creek, on through to the Great Lakes then in control of the Five Nations, or their descendants. This particular old Indian lingered around the small village of Curwen for several days, seemingly to have no particular reason for his prolonged stay, and speaking with none of the settlers, but finally mustered up courage and made a financial proposition to a man whom he seemed to recognize as a big chief among the inhabitants, that for $100 in gold he would show him where a silver and lead vein lay hidden in the bottom of the river. Avariciousness sometimes warps a man's better and cooler judgment, and this case of "getting rich quickly" proved to be no exception, for this man readily agreed to this old patriarch's proposition and told the noble red man that he would meet him at a certain point on the river bank on the morrow and when the place was pointed out to him, he would pay over the promised ten titles. But during the night the man's mind underwent a change of regard to the transaction and he concluded that if the minerals really existed, as poor old La was so positive they did, he could just as well find them himself, by turning the course of the stream a trifle and digging. So next morning, with the assistance of two or three other men, he went at the job, entirely ignoring the presence of the Indian who stood on the bank wrapped in his old and tattered blanket, and watching the white men as they labored. He made but one comment, using the only English words at his command, "Ugh, white man one heap damn big fool," and watching them a little while longer turned and hit the trail for his old and time honored hunting grounds down on the North Branch of the old and smiling Susquehanna.

No one ever saw him in this vicinity afterwards. The man and his crew dredged and hunted the river bed for more than a mile and finally gave it up, firmly believing that the Indian had wilfully told them a falsehood and had fooled them to a nicety. Yet the silver and lead story may have more truth than poetry in it after all than is generally supposed, but some of the wise heads at this late day treat it as a legend of long ago. Nevertheless it is a story that has never died out entirely and every once in a while we hear reference made to the silver mine lying in the bottom of the old river dam.

Mr. Harley, at the time he told the writer the above, firmly believed that the stuff was there and that the old Indian knew of its exact location.

Another fact that led many of the old pioneers to believe the Indian's story to be true, was that at one time long before the living episode, or that family's time in this section of the country, a man whom we knew as Uncle David Ross, attempted to follow a party of redskins and ascertain where they procured their lead, as he had oftentimes seen them going down the river trail empty handed and returning within a few days laden down with huge lumps of virgin lead. The party that he was trailing allowed Uncle Dave, who was a young and vigorous hunter of some renown at that time, to tag along behind never giving a sign that they knew of his close proximity, and finally ambushed him and tied him to a tree with fowl and water enough to last him several days within easy reach, and left him there while they continued on their way. Uncle Dave could do nothing but stand up and ponder over his indiscretion of keeping such a slack lookout.

He remained in his uncomfortable position for some three days when the party returned, by the same route they had taken, and released him. He suffered terrible torture and when the thoughts that bound him were removed, he fell to the ground being almost dead from exhaustion. He could not stand on his feet at all, and his red brethren carried him back to his home on a rude bough-made stretcher, leaving him with the admonition, "to follow Indian no more, next time kill you." From that time on Uncle David's hunting days were over, as his feet and lower limbs became so warped and crooked from being tied and standing so long in one position in rain and storm that the foot stood out at right angle from what nature had intended they should. He thereafter always used two stout hickory canes in walking and continued to use them up until the time death claimed him for its own. Uncle David Ross, were he living today, would have reached the ripe age of 116 years. The above story he imparted to the writer many times over when he was yet a small youth and it made such a deep impression on his mind at the time that he has never forgotten even a word of the weird tale. There are many people yet residing in Curwensville who still retain a vivid recollection of Uncle David, his experience just related with the Indians as told by him, and his peculiar mode of locomotion.

Unfortunately a provisional government seldom has any provisions to distribute.

Cleaning Velvet

THERE'S A RIGHT AND A WRONG WAY

When velvet is cleaned in the right way, the nap stands up as it did when the velvet was new. I've a new machine that will make velvet as "lively" as new. Won't you let me prove it on a coat or dress?

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism, or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish tinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that on one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"WATCH YOUR STEP" TONIGHT.

The latest musical cocktail having as its chief inspiration the existing terpsichorean mania bears the singular appropriate title of "Watch Your Step," and will appear at the Opera House tonight.

"Watch Your Step" is far and away the best of its kind that theatredom has entertained in many days. All traditions in the matter of lavish costuming and sumptuous settings have been set aside, all previous efforts undone in the matter of gorgeous raiment. There are modishly attired show girls, spirited ponies, and a group of villagers reminiscent of Mother Goose at her best. These and others combine to form a background for the principals that makes a galeid look cheap and never permits the proceedings to lag.

The cordiality with which "Watch Your Step" and its interpreters are greeted, is proof positive of its merits. The artists and their high standing on the musical and comedy stage is unmistakable evidence that entertainment and company are the best in the world of make-believe.

JONES sometimes wakes up feeling cross and in consequence the family know it without his telling them in so many words.

Mrs. Jones attributes it to biliousness and if it doesn't wear off during the day she gives him a dose of liver medicine at night. The next morning he feels better and she gives him coffee for breakfast,—and the next morning,—and the next morning. And in a few days Jones has another spell.

Dear Mrs. Jones means all right, but she doesn't seem to realize that if she didn't give Jones his morning coffee she wouldn't have to give him the liver medicine and Jones would feel all right without both.

Housewives everywhere have found out that Instant Postum takes the place of breakfast coffee perfectly. And that is only one of the reasons why Instant Postum has wholly supplanted the use of coffee on thousands upon thousands of American breakfast tables.

Electric Heaters Temper the New York Winters to the Tropical Bear Asleep in His Electrically Heated Flat at the Bronx Zoo

Bruin, the persimmon bear in the Bronx Park Zoo is snoozing away the winter months in an electrically heated flat. A mud flat it is, but none the less a modern bear home fitted with electric heaters just like the most up-to-date homes of New York's millionaires. While his other bear cousins imported from colder climes are hibernating in cold and cheerless bear caves "Bruin" is asleep in his electrically heated lair dreaming of pleasant days in his sunny southern home.

The reason why Keeper Snyder has thus favored the persimmon bear alone is because Bruin lived in a steam heated home before he arrived at the zoo, but because he was born and brought up in the persimmon belt where the sun shines with an intensity and warmth unknown to New Yorkers. Bruin's fur was not stimulated in its growth by the cold winds the other bears stand with comfort, and so it was only natural that he should shiver and complain to the keeper-landlord of the zoo.

It was decided that electric heaters would offer the safest method of heating Bruin's cave, and so while the other bears with their shaggy overcoats looked on in some astonishment electricians figured out the number of heaters needed and arranged the scheme of wiring so that his bearship would not suffer an electric shock or a burned overcoat. Electric wires were run through a waterproof conduit from the nearest electric light pole, the wires were buried and attached to the heaters in the cave, and the current turned on. An electric thermostat automatically regulates the heat.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a Harmless Substitue

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but effective laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to harness a powerful but harmless little olive-colored tablet. These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or salts. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the system. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "biliousness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "heavy" and "heave." Note how they "clear" the system and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

"DARING OF DIANA"

Anita Stewart Special Feature at

The Globe Tuesday.

A mere slip of a lass, a wholesome, sprightly, modest little wood violet! How else can one typify Anita Stewart?

She has charm, she has beauty. She has poise and her wide range and control of delicate emotions have registered her personality indelibly, wherever her productions are screened.

It was when her rare brilliance and personal beauty was being utilized by many of New York's first class artists that the Vitagraph company saw in her the elements so necessary for a screen personality.

For six months or more she took small, unimportant parts as maids and learned all the technical rudiments from the ground up. Her rise since then has been meteoric and she stands today among the first three of the most popular stars in the firmament of America's photoplay actresses.

Born in Brooklyn on February 17, 1896, she graduated from Erasmus High School.

Many small parts were accorded her in amateur productions, but the interest of America only centers on her career after she appeared in "The Wood Violet," "The Million Bid," "The Goddess," "The Juggernaut," "The Sins of the Mothers," "My Lady's Slipper," and "The Suspect."

In "The Daring of Diana" the Vitagraphs five-part feature film to be shown at the Globe theatre Tuesday, Miss Stewart proves her possession of no small amount of versatility in the role of a newspaper reporter.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which exerts and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a table spoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

CLARE RICHARDS MEETS DEATH AT MADERA

Falls From Buggy While Driving From Madera About 11 P. M. Sunday Night

INTOXICATION CAUSED FALL

Clare Richards, aged 36 years, met with death on Saturday evening or early Sunday morning, as the result of an accident, but it is not clearly established just what occurred to cause his death. It is stated that Richards was in Madera on Saturday evening and that about 10:30 o'clock he left that place in an intoxicated condition. He was driving in a buggy drawn by a mule. That was the last seen or heard of him until Sunday morning at 7 o'clock, at which hour his lifeless body was found lying along the road about 2 1/2 miles out of Madera. His feet were pointing towards the ditch and his head well up towards the center of the road. He had a fractured skull and two fractures of the lower jaw.

In view of the fact that Richards was intoxicated it is the belief of the officials that he fell out of the rig while driving along. Quite likely he landed well up on the road and was unable to realize his danger. From the injuries received by Richards it is the supposition that an automobile must have struck him some time during the night. It is known that one automobile passed through madera en route to Moutdale about 12 o'clock and that another passed through Madera en route to Glen Hope about 2 o'clock in the morning. It is possible that one of these machines struck the man lying in the road. It is not believed that a fall out of a buggy would result in a fractured skull and two fractures of the jaw.

Philipsburg Booze Is Cause of a Stabbing

Woodland Citizens up in Arms over Saturday Night Affair

A Russian, name unknown, is languishing in the County Jail today awaiting trial on a charge of stabbing a man who attempted to act the part of peace maker in an affray at a Woodland boarding house Saturday evening. The Russian was drunk and disorderly and was ordered to go to bed by his wife, whereupon he became abusive and attempted to stab her. The victim of his knife thrust sustained an ugly cut in the chest but apparently will suffer no dire results from it. People of Woodland say that this fracas and a great many others of a like nature occurring about there are the direct result of the bottle trade in booze from Philipsburg. Dozens of men leave there every Saturday evening and go to Philipsburg where they load up their suitcases with bottles. The quality of the bottle booze is such that the drinkers become as madmen and are capable of committing any sort of crime.

Almost Two Billion Asked To Run This Government 1 Year

Estimate of The Various Heads of Departments Submitted to Congress Today by Secretary McAdoo

$5,000,000 ASKED FOR THE OHIO RIVER

Washington, Dec. 4.—(By United Press)—Legislative provisions to shatter the high cost of living were introduced at the reopening of Congress today. Representative Fitzgerald leader of the embargo forces introduced four plans—two of them called for proposed embargo on exports and the other two for regulation of cold storage and reduction of parcel post charges of food stuffs. Representative Farr of Pennsylvania proposed an embargo on wheat and Representative London, Socialist, of New York is working on measures for a proposed dictatorship plan. Representatives of the farm districts rallied against the bills and said they would put through a union embargo. Both houses sent a resolution to President Wilson telling him that they were ready for his message tomorrow. The house convened at 12:01. Speaker Clark calling for order. The senate started to work three minutes later. At 12:11 senate recessed until three.

The provisions of the Fitzgerald bill are—an out and out embargo on farm products and manufactured food stuffs for one year. 2.—Provisions that the President suspend exportation whenever prices become exorbitant and public interests require such action. 3.—Regulation of cold storage with regard to interstate shipment of food other than 10 months in storage and then to be distinctly labelled with the date of when they were stored.

Washington, Dec. 4.—(By United Press)—It will take $1,854,818,654.03 to run the government of the United States from June 30, 1917 to June 30, 1918.

This is the estimate of the heads of the various branches of the government of the country submitted to congress today through Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo.

Of this grand total of more than a billion and a half dollars the various establishments estimates are set forth as follows:

Legislative, $7,891,622.50; executive, $22,979,685; judicial $1,395,790; department of agriculture, $28,098,207; foreign intercourse, $5,700,020.66; military establishment, $200,694,684.52; naval establishment, $366,070,651.67; Indian affairs, $12,230,356.67; pensions, $155,560,000; Panama canal, $25,145,562.25; public works, $145,118,224.46; postal service, $225,355,820; miscellaneous, $108,914,788.93; permanent annual appropriations, $143,864,820.32.

The total estimate for the needs of the government for the next fiscal year exceeds by $27,197,559.98 the amount appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917.

With the exception of the postal service the needs for defense and preparedness as shown in the report constitutes the largest single item.

Congress was asked today for $32,000,000 for the Ohio river.

128,000 as an appropriation for the Rivers and Harbors improvement bill for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918. Last year $42,081,000 was asked for the work. The biggest single item in their estimates submitted through the treasury department was $6,000,000 to improve the Mississippi river from the head of Tassess to the Ohio river and to provide for the Mississippi river commission. The second largest item was $5,000,000 for dams and locks on the Ohio river to give a depth of nine feet below Pittsburgh. The third item in point of amount was $2,250,000 asked to maintain and improve the Mississippi from the Missouri river to Minneapolis, Minn. Fourth in order of size is $2,150,000 for improvements and maintenance of the South West Pass on the Mississippi River in Louisiana. Next is a request for $2,000,000,000 for improvement of the Delaware river.

Two Important Organized Labor Cases Before The Supreme Court

United Mine Workers Appeal from Decision in Hitchman Coal and Coke Co. Case.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Among the cases soon to receive attention of the Supreme Court of the United States, which reconvened today after the recess over the Thanksgiving holidays, are two important cases involving organized labor, and, particularly, the right of workmen to organize unions. Both cases are from West Virginia in litigation of the Hitchman coal and coke Company against the United Mine Workers, its officers, and of the Eagle Glass Manufacturing Co. against the United Flint Glass Workers' Union and its officers.

In the United Mine Workers' suit, validity of a finding by Federal Judge Dayton that the union is an illegal organization is appealed from. In the Glass worker's union case, the Eagle company of Wellsburg, W. Va. is appealing from a decree holding that that union is not an unlawful organization.

The glassworkers' case has never been heard by the Supreme Court. The case of the United Mine Workers was argued last March, but no decision was reached and reargument before a full bench was ordered.

ANSONVILLE LAD OF EIGHT YEARS KILLED SUNDAY

Brother, 14, Attempts to Wrest Gun From Lad, is Accidentally Discharged and Kills Him

LOAD CRASHED THROUGH HEAD

A very distressing accident, resulting in the death of an eight year old boy, took place at Ansonville on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Two boys, Ralph Heift, aged 8 years, and his brother, Paul, aged 14 years, on Sunday afternoon went upstairs at their home to play. Ralph, the eight-year-old youngster, picked up a double barreled hammerless shotgun that was in one of the rooms. His older brother, realizing the danger of such a weapon in the hands of his brother, endeavored to take it away from him. In some manner the trigger caught, firing the gun, and the entire contents of the load entered the mouth of Ralph, the eight-year-old boy, killing him instantly. The barrel of the gun was so close to the youngster that the shot crashed clear through his head.

The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Heift, well known residents of that section. The accident was one that shocked the entire community.

The Liquor Men of Massachusetts Fear Municipal Election Results

Thirty-five Cities in State in Vote on Issue During This Month Including Boston.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 4.—The out-staff is doing his or her part to swing some of the municipal elections about Boston into the no-license column. According to the no-license and pro-Massachusetts cities is awaited with bated breath. The liquor people are frightened at the prospects of the election that the Billy Sunday campaign now being conducted in this city may have on the vote of the liquor men. Washington, Dec. 4.—(By United Press)—With an open challenge for a complete expose of any "pork" schemes, engineered under the guise of Rivers and Harbors legislation, the thirteenth annual convention of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress will convene here Wednesday.

"If anyone knows," the challenge read, "that a project has no merit, or that an appropriation is sought solely to promote the political fortunes of some Senator or Representative, he will be given an opportunity to publicly name the man."

"However, if a man from Main criticizes a project in California, he will be expected to tell how he happens to know so much about things 2,000 or 3,000 miles away."

The Congress is to be addressed by Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, under whose jurisdiction waterways projects are administered.

Speakers are expected to emphasize the present coal shortage as indicative of inadequate transportation and urge development of inland rivers of coal mining districts. "On the headwaters of one of our greatest rivers," a preliminary statement said "coal mines have been compelled to close, for lack of transportation while cities lower down the river have paid famine prices for coal."

The Congress will attack "vaccinating waterways policy," of the United States, and urge some definite constructive schedule of rivers and harbors improvement.

Rear Admiral William S. Benton, Chief of Operations of the Navy, will speak on "The Relation of Improved Waterways to Naval Efficiency." Representative Luther W. Mott, of Oswego, N. Y., will speak on "From the Great Lakes to Tidewater Under the American Flag."

"The Effect of Water Competition on Railway Rates," will be discussed by Theodore Breh, General Manager of the Joint traffic bureau of New Orleans.

PAPER OF MUCH INTEREST READ TO GRANGERS

Mrs. J. S. Wrigley Contributes Article on "What Do Women On Farm Most Desires?"

LABOR SAVING DEVICES

Paper read at Farmers Grange by Sister Mrs. J. S. Wrigley at the 10th November meeting. "What do Women on the Farm desire most?"

The subject on which I am to speak would be a different passage in the phrase "on the farm" were omitted. All women who have had enough training before they reach womanhood and have had a high regard for charity naturally desire the something. It is not only this desire to make a happy home, but to do everything which will tend toward reaching this end. Her desire is to assist her husband in every way she can. To the object is to purchase a home, but helpmate of course, wants her husband's cooperation. One thing however should be carefully guarded against, not to give all her energy to one end and in that way defeating other ends. The wife and if she is a mother wants her home to be an attractive place—a place where others like to be.

To have it so it must be happy, comfortable, containing good furniture and music on the walls of the family may fancy. If this be the wish of any woman it is true of the whole on the farm.

But looking at the subject through the eyes of a woman on the farm, addition to the mentioned things, she naturally desires the conveniences of the labor-saving appliances of the day—that a heat and water supply conveniently arranged in the house, a modern laundry outfit, a vacuum cleaner, or anything which may lessen the drudgery of farm work. Using our automobile, (which I wish to have) we can reach places of interest and rest our minds as well as our bodies.

East End Drug Store Robbed Last Night

Booty Amounting to Nearly $2000 in Store was Stolen

The East End store of the firm of Woodward and McPherson was the victim of a robbery either last night or late Saturday night. In as much as there was no snow on the ground on Saturday morning it is believed that the robbery occurred last night as tracks were found this morning. The robbers entered the store by removing the window out of the door over the coal dump. The window was only 16 by 21 in size. An attempt had been made to remove the door but that idea apparently had been abandoned.

WHO IS RIGHT?

There is a growing tendency on the part of Clearfield men to keep their stores open later than usual during the holiday season. Naturally, it will be for the convenience of the great army of shoppers that they do so, but there must be some half way place that will do justice to both shoppers and store employees.

Contrasting the conditions in Clearfield with those of other towns we refer to a movement that is on foot in that town among the leading merchants. They propose to close their stores at nine P. M. on Saturday nights instead of ten P. M. as heretofore.

FAT AND FORTY.

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon who has made a great hit as a physician and advice giver at long distance range has come forth with some good sound advice to the men approaching middle age. We deem it worthy of reprint in this column.

Forty is an unlucky number for men five feet eight or under if it is the waist measure. Any number above that is equally to be avoided. Over weight is dangerous and is indicative of several things. Either the appetite is not controlled, insufficient exercise is taken or the diet is made up of improperly selected food stuffs.

If any or all of these things are to blame it is the part of wisdom to seek expert advice and begin the remedy forthwith. To sink into the placid indifference of the fat and forty stage is a crime against your health. It is in all probability that the liver and kidneys are overworked and the results of any such strain prolonged is a fatal one.

There is another reason which is worth almost equal consideration. To over-feed undermines one's health. Physical fitness has a distinct bearing on a man's mental attitude and unfitness has also. The man who through neglect and lack of control over his appetite begins to eat himself into an early grave, loses his crispness of thought. The self respect which every man who believes things should have for himself as a clean well groomed animal is lacking.

Don't weakly excuse yourself if you have unconsciously slipped into this class. Get busy and work yourself out of it before it is too late.

The hand that rocked the cradle
Now makes shells that rock the world,
Now female fingers fashion
Almost every bomb that's hurled;
And maidens, wives and mothers
All stand working, sun to sun,
With bits of glittering metal

Who knows, Oh Tommy Atkins,
As you throw that hand grenade
Perchance it's one of many
That your wife or sweetheart made.

I ADMIRE ETHEL'S PUNCTUAL HABITS

Ethel's mother was stopping with her a few weeks, so she managed to run out to see me one day when she knew I wouldn't be at the studios. I was upstairs having my hair shampooed when I heard her voice, so I called to her to come up directly. As soon as my hair was dry I dressed and we went for a short ride returning in time for lunch. After lunch we sat in my cheerful sun parlor talking of the hundred and one different things so dear to the mind of the girl of the day. We chatted endlessly about the length of the new skirts, whether the coats should be short, three-quarter or full length. In fact, no favorite topic was neglected.

Since Ethel had promised to be home in time for a six o'clock dinner, I had Eliza bring the tea wagon out early. I had in mind also that mother who had just returned from the shops, might grow faint, and indeed she was pleased when she found the tea things ready. We all lingered a long while over the thin sandwiches and delicious chocolate which dark Eliza concocts in a wonderful fashion.

Mother had brought a number of purchases home with her in the machine, so, of course, we simply had to pass our opinion on each and every article. It took longer than we expected to open the packages, examine the lingerie and shirtwaists, and exclaim over the bounty of some special hothouse roses. Before either of us realized it, the little white clock was chiming four—and Ethel's train left at four-fifteen.

Never did you see a person don wraps so quickly. Her chic little green feather turban was clapped upon her chestnut curls and a delightful veil neatly pinned over it, gloves and afternoon bag grabbed on the way out of the room, while her tan crepe de chine shirtwaist collar was placed over the deep brown of her tailmade suit on the way down stairs. As for me, I had donned a heavy automobile cloak and we were both waiting at the roadway by the time the man brought the machine around to take Ethel to her train. We reached the station in time, and as I waved from the station, Ethel's smiling face beamed at me attractively from the train window.

Why do I mention this trifling incident? Because punctuality is Ethel's great rule. Her boy husband and sweet mother would have thought nothing of it if she had been late to dinner, but Ethel would never permit such a thing to happen. Since tardiness is womankind's conceded failing, don't you think we could all learn a lesson from this little incident?

CURWENSVILLE NEWS

Claim Silver and Lead Vein Exists At Curwensville

A most Interesting Story, be it Legend Or Truth, and One that Will Interest you.

INDIANS KNEW THE EXACT LOCATION

By Lew J. LaPorte.

Considerable space and time has been given by newspapers of years gone by, relative to a silver and lead vein or mine that is supposed to have existed at a certain point in the riverbed between Curwensville and the Bloom bridge. Early historians speak of it as a legend and say that this treasure trove was guarded by goblins and emissaries of the Evil One.

Be that as it may, there seems to be some foundation for thinking that these two minerals, either separate or together, did and do yet exist in this locality, especially the lead vein. Mr. George W. Harley, the oldest living representative of a native Curwensvillian, now in the 96th year of his age, told the writer of this article many years ago and the following tale, it was handed to him when he was a mere youth and Curwensville little less than a wilderness of mammoth trees.

"When early settlers first came to Curwensville they desired above all things else to gain possession of the river, a waterway for future use in sawmilling, etc. A few years after a certain man made his permanent location, an aged Indian came this way from the direction of the northwest country, traversing, no doubt, the old Indian trail which led from former Delaware Indian possessions, near Grand Island (which had been purchased by a white man some years prior to this epoch from an Indian who owned the land for a worn out gun and a keg of whiskey) and Pine Creek, on through to the Great Lakes then in control of the Five Nations, or their descendants. This particular old Indian lingered around the small village of Curwen for several days, seemingly to have no particular reason for his prolonged stay, and speaking with none of the settlers, but finally mustered up courage and made a financial proposition to a man whom he seemed to recognize as a big chief among the inhabitants, that for $100 in gold he would show him where a silver and lead vein lay hidden in the bottom of the river. Avariciousness sometimes warps a man's better and cooler judgment, and this case of "getting rich quickly" proved to be no exception, for this man readily agreed to this old patriarch's proposition and told the noble red man that he would meet him at a certain point on the river bank on the morrow and when the place was pointed out to him, he would pay over the promised ten titles. But during the night the man's mind underwent a change of regard to the transaction and he concluded that if the minerals really existed, as poor old La was so positive they did, he could just as well find them himself, by turning the course of the stream a trifle and digging. So next morning, with the assistance of two or three other men, he went at the job, entirely ignoring the presence of the Indian who stood on the bank wrapped in his old and tattered blanket, and watching the white men as they labored. He made but one comment, using the only English words at his command, "Ugh, white man one heap damn big fool," and watching them a little while longer turned and hit the trail for his old and time honored hunting grounds down on the North Branch of the old and smiling Susquehanna.

No one ever saw him in this vicinity afterwards. The man and his crew dredged and hunted the river bed for more than a mile and finally gave it up, firmly believing that the Indian had wilfully told them a falsehood and had fooled them to a nicety. Yet the silver and lead story may have more truth than poetry in it after all than is generally supposed, but some of the wise heads at this late day treat it as a legend of long ago. Nevertheless it is a story that has never died out entirely and every once in a while we hear reference made to the silver mine lying in the bottom of the old river dam.

Mr. Harley, at the time he told the writer the above, firmly believed that the stuff was there and that the old Indian knew of its exact location."

Another fact that led many of the old pioneers to believe the Indian's story to be true, was that at one time long before the living episode, or that family's time in this section of the country, a man whom we knew as Uncle David Ross, attempted to follow a party of redskins and ascertain where they procured their lead, as he had oftentimes seen them going down the river trail empty handed and returning within a few days laden down with huge lumps of virgin lead. The party that he was trailing allowed Uncle Dave, who was a young and vigorous hunter of some renown at that time, to tag along behind never giving a sign that they knew of his close proximity, and finally ambushed him and tied him to a tree with fowl and water enough to last him several days within easy reach, and left him there while they continued on their way. Uncle Dave could do nothing but stand up and ponder over his indiscretion of keeping such a slack lookout.

He remained in his uncomfortable position for some three days when the party returned, by the same route they had taken, and released him. He suffered terrible torture and when the thoughts that bound him were removed, he fell to the ground being almost dead from exhaustion. He could not stand on his feet at all, and his red brethren carried him back to his home on a rude bough-made stretcher, leaving him with the admonition, "to follow Indian no more, next time kill you." From that time on Uncle David's hunting days were over, as his feet and lower limbs became so warped and crooked from being tied and standing so long in one position in rain and storm that the foot stood out at right angle from what nature had intended they should. He thereafter always used two stout hickory canes in walking and continued to use them up until the time death claimed him for its own. Uncle David Ross, were he living today, would have reached the ripe age of 116 years. The above story he imparted to the writer many times over when he was yet a small youth and it made such a deep impression on his mind at the time that he has never forgotten even a word of the weird tale. There are many people yet residing in Curwensville who still retain a vivid recollection of Uncle David, his experience just related with the Indians as told by him, and his peculiar mode of locomotion.

Unfortunately a provisional government seldom has any provisions to distribute.

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism, or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a sourish tinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that on one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"WATCH YOUR STEP" TONIGHT.

The latest musical cocktail having as its chief inspiration the existing terpsichorean mania bears the singular appropriate title of "Watch Your Step," and will appear at the Opera House tonight.

"Watch Your Step" is far and away the best of its kind that theatredom has entertained in many days. All traditions in the matter of lavish costuming and sumptuous settings have been set aside, all previous efforts undone in the matter of gorgeous raiment. There are modishly attired show girls, spirited ponies, and a group of villagers reminiscent of Mother Goose at her best. These and others combine to form a background for the principals that makes a galeid look cheap and never permits the proceedings to lag.

The cordiality with which "Watch Your Step" and its interpreters are greeted, is proof positive of its merits. The artists and their high standing on the musical and comedy stage is unmistakable evidence that entertainment and company are the best in the world of make-believe.

JONES sometimes wakes up feeling cross and in consequence the family know it without his telling them in so many words.

Mrs. Jones attributes it to biliousness and if it doesn't wear off during the day she gives him a dose of liver medicine at night. The next morning he feels better and she gives him coffee for breakfast,—and the next morning,—and the next morning. And in a few days Jones has another spell.

Dear Mrs. Jones means all right, but she doesn't seem to realize that if she didn't give Jones his morning coffee she wouldn't have to give him the liver medicine and Jones would feel all right without both.

Housewives everywhere have found out that Instant Postum takes the place of breakfast coffee perfectly. And that is only one of the reasons why Instant Postum has wholly supplanted the use of coffee on thousands upon thousands of American breakfast tables.

Electric Heaters Temper the New York Winters to the Tropical Bear Asleep in His Electrically Heated Flat at the Bronx Zoo

Bruin, the persimmon bear in the Bronx Park Zoo is snoozing away the winter months in an electrically heated flat. A mud flat it is, but none the less a modern bear home fitted with electric heaters just like the most up-to-date homes of New York's millionaires. While his other bear cousins imported from colder climes are hibernating in cold and cheerless bear caves "Bruin" is asleep in his electrically heated lair dreaming of pleasant days in his sunny southern home.

The reason why Keeper Snyder has thus favored the persimmon bear alone is because Bruin lived in a steam heated home before he arrived at the zoo, but because he was born and brought up in the persimmon belt where the sun shines with an intensity and warmth unknown to New Yorkers. Bruin's fur was not stimulated in its growth by the cold winds the other bears stand with comfort, and so it was only natural that he should shiver and complain to the keeper-landlord of the zoo.

It was decided that electric heaters would offer the safest method of heating Bruin's cave, and so while the other bears with their shaggy overcoats looked on in some astonishment electricians figured out the number of heaters needed and arranged the scheme of wiring so that his bearship would not suffer an electric shock or a burned overcoat. Electric wires were run through a waterproof conduit from the nearest electric light pole, the wires were buried and attached to the heaters in the cave, and the current turned on. An electric thermostat automatically regulates the heat.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a Harmless Substitue

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but effective laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to harness a powerful natural remedy have brought out these little olive-colored tablets. These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or salts. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the system. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "biliousness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "heavy" and "heave." Note how they "clear" the brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

IRONING A PLEASURE

With the changing of irons eliminated, with the assurance that your iron is always clean and smooth, wouldn't ironing be a pleasure and the work be more satisfactory?

Whether you do your own ironing or a servant does it for you a Hotpoint is a household necessity. Lighter work means better work, no matter who does it.

One HOTPOINT is all you need. It stays hot and does not have to be changed. Its face is uniformly hot—no part hotter or colder than the rest. The whole iron irons. With the specially arranged heater of the HOTPOINT the heat generated goes where it should and stays. The handle is always cool yet the iron is always hot.

There are many other reasons why the HOTPOINT is a superior iron and we would like to explain them to you personally. Won't you come in?

This thrilling romance of the southland presents the famous Selig star, Kathlyn Williams as Shirley Dandridge, a girl engaged to marry a man who she believes to be the murderer of the man her mother loved in her youth. She takes the only course open for her and sacrifices her love, and yet in the end—see the picture for the solution.

"DARING OF DIANA"

Anita Stewart Special Feature at

The Globe Tuesday.

A mere slip of a lass, a whole some, sprightly, modest little wood violet! How else can one typify Anita Stewart?

She has charm, she has beauty. She has poise and her wide range and control of delicate emotions have registered her personality indelibly, wherever her productions are screened.

It was when her rare brilliance and personal beauty was being utilized by many of New York's first class artists that the Vitagraph company saw in her the elements so necessary for a screen personality.

For six months or more she took small, unimportant parts as maids and learned all the technical rudiments from the ground up. Her rise since then has been meteoric and she stands today among the first three of the most popular stars in the firmament of America's photoplay actresses.

Born in Brooklyn on February 17, 1896, she graduated from Erasmus High School.

Many small parts were accorded her in amateur productions, but the interest of America only centers on her career after she appeared in "The Wood Violet," "The Million Bid," "The Goddess," "The Juggernaut," "The Sins of the Mothers," "My Lady's Slipper," and "The Suspect." In "The Daring of Diana" the Vitagraphs five-part feature film to be shown at the Globe theatre Tuesday, Miss Stewart proves her possession of no small amount of versatility in the role of a newspaper reporter.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have Bladder trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which exerts and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.
